Meets Tonight

OPTIMIST INTERNATIONAL

7:30 P.M.
Community Center

East Side

By P. D.

It was a couple of weeks ago that I noticed what I considered a progressive sign at the intersection of Central Avenue and Highway 11. I noted that the sign was up for two days — and then it disappeared. Along with the Kiwanis Club sign and the Petal Home And Garden Club sign in the triangle on the highway, the Petal Optimist Club had put up theirs, stating that Petal has an Optimist Club, it's meeting place and time — but now it's gone.

I wonder why — and where — but especially WHY?

All things considered, it is somewhat doubtful that my faith in human nature could be called a modern day miracle, or, for that matter, even a present day wonder. But just recently I had occasion to restore a good bit of my wavering faith in my fellow man. It happened that one night about 11:00 I learned I was to be in Jackson the next morning at 7:00.

Now, as anyone who knows me can tell you, I'm real peculiar in many ways. One way is that I do business with those who do business with me. Another way is that I never, even if I have any, carry money with me. I buy travelers checks from the bank if I'm going on a trip and will need more than five bucks.

To the point, though: I had about a quarter tank of gasoline in my car and about a dollar and a half in my pocket. I figured to stop enroute and fill up my tank on my credit card, and at the same time have breakfast. And I did exactly what I had anticipated doing. I stopped in Collins for gasoline and breakfast, driving up like I owned the car I was driving. And keeping with my character, like a real big shot, I told the fellow to fill it up while I had something to eat. He filled and I ate.

While still eating he walked into the cafe and I handed him my Sinclair credit card. He looked at me real funny and informed me that I was at a Gulf station. That was the first time I'd noticed it at all. Of course, there weren't over a hundred signs around with GULF on them. I assured him that I though I was at the Sinclair station. Come to find out it was up the street about thirty yards.

Well, the long and short of it was, I was a little embarrased, having less than a dollar on me after paying for breakfast, and owing the service station about five dollars. The only person in Collins I knew was Jimmy Arrington, and I could just see myself calling Jim at 5:30 in the morning and explaining my situation. Anyway, the Gulf fellow said he'd have a talk with the Sinclair man. He called him at home, 5:30 A. M., and explained the mess, and the Sinclair man, Mr. M. M. Pace, got up and came down to his station and straightened out the busi-

Five By Five (5 x 5) — ?

Well, Then, Diet Right!

In view of the extensive and valuable work done in recent years by medical science, there is no reason for any person in this nation to be referred to by their friends as a Mister Five by Five.

With this view in mind, we present for your consideration the following diet, which was prescribed by an Alabama doctor for a fat friend of ours in that state. His only surviving daughter passed it along to us.

Monday	Breakfast	Weak Tea
	Lunch	1 bullion cube in ½ cup of water
	Dinner	1 pigeon thigh, 3 ozs. prune juice (gargle only)
Tuesday	Breakfast	Scrapped crumbs from burnt toast
	Lunch	1 doughnut hole (without sugar) 1 dehydrated glass of water
	Dinner	2 jellyfish skins
Wednesday	Breakfast	Boiled out staines from a tablecloth
	Lunch	½ dozen poppy seed
	Dinner	2 bee knees and 2 mosquito knuckles
Thursday	Breakfast	Shredded egg shell skins (1)
	Lunch	Bellybutton from a naval orange
	Dinner	3 eyes from Irish potato (diced)
Friday	Breakfast	2 lobster antennas
	Lunch	1 guppy fish
	Dinner	jellyfish vertabrae (broiled)
Saturday	Breakfast	4 chipped banana seeds
	Lunch	Broiled butterfly liver
	Dinner	Filet of soft shell crab claw
Sunday	Breakfast	Pickled hummingbird tongue
	Lunch	Prime ribs of tadpole (2) and aroma of an empty pie plate
	Dinner	Tossed paprika and clover leaf salad (no dressing)

All meals to be eaten under a microscope to prevent extra portions!

So, out with the numerous wares harked day and night by the television and radio announcers. Use the above diet; but we do suggest that on Friday evening after the dinner of broiled Jellyfish Vertabrae you check with your undertaker and make sure your policy is paid in full. Incidentally, we express our sincere thanks to the men of science and to the low burial policy rates now in effect.

Marvin Reuben, WDAM-TV Manager Addressed Local Club Last Week

Marvin Reuben, manager of WDAM-TV Station, Channel 9, addressed the local Optimist Club at their regular weekly meeting held last Thursday night in the Petal Community Center.

In his address to the club, Mr. Reuben pointed out the benefits of advertising, stating that "advertising is the backbone of progress in any town." Also, Mr. Reuben stated that television had no quarrel with any other advertising media whatsoever; he pointed out that the more advertising done by any means of communication was a progressive step for any town.

In answer to a question from an Optimist member, Mr. Reuben stated that WDSU-TV had made application to the Federal Communications Commission to purchase controlling interest in the local station. And in connection with that possibility, Reuben stated that the present plans call for increased network programing, and altogether to make WDAM-TV one of the outstanding stations in the state.

In addition to the talk by Marvin Reuben, Park Chairman Burrell C. Young reported to the club on the Park Fund. He stated that during the week the club was operating a rummage sale, proceeds from which would be used toward the park project.

It was decided to operate the rummage sale throughout the present week.

Dr. O. N. Ashcraft, club president, presided at the meeting.

Not only my warmest thanks to Mr. Pace for his courtesy, but also for letting me know that there are still some folks around who "would do unto others as they would have others do unto them." Anyway, anytime I'm through Collins, whether I only need two-bits worth of gasoline, I'm stopping with M. M. Pace and buying it.

Letter To Madison Avenue

Sir: Here is a letter I have written to a whole street, Madison Avenue, New York, the Holy Mecca of the Advertising Magicians in the United States of America. Will you please help get it delivered?
Madison Avenue, New York

Dear (in a manner of speaking) Street: I have never written to a whole street before and am at a bit of a loss. I have heard that Madison Avenue is the Royal Mile of the advertising profession, along whcih the Top Brains of the advertising business congregate. I hope the postman will take this letter up and down the street.

I have been listening anon and anon to the commercials on TV. I have been astounded to realize that the Top Brains of advertising, which design these commercials, do not seem to know the fact of life that are painfully evident to all viewers and hearers above the age of nine who are not in a mental institution. Your excuse is, I realize, that you live in New York and are probably out of touch with the United States of America. So here are a few facts of life on TV that have escaped you. I blush to mention them, for they are the kind of simple ideas that are disturbing to the official mind.

1. Yelling is a poor way of carrying on a conversation. Why do you have so many announcers scream their wares, like a bellowing bull caught in a barbed-wire fence? The best things in life are not accomplished by yelling. No one ever proposed to a girl by using a megaphone. Here and there an announcer talks like a man and not a fog horn, and he is a healing poltice to the ear and mind.

2. Too much is Plenty. That is a good rule which it seems has never swung into your ken. Most of your hucksters have never heard of the "saturation point." There is one, believe me! For instance, the sadists who plan the orgy of plugging beer and cigaret commercials between every inning of a baseball game have only one rule: "Bore them to death." They argue that if one digitalis pill is good for a person with heart trouble, 25 pills would be a lot better. But patients have died under that regime, and many of your patients have disappeared.

3. A wisecrack loses its novelty after the first 10,000 times. That is heresy to advertising Top Brass, but remember it. When a TV listener hears for the first time something looks good as a thingumbob should, it sounds like quite a "nifty." But after the first 10,000 times it loses it freshness. These repitions reproduce with high fidelity the swing of a rusty gate. When we hear the witless repitition of a chain of letters such as "Ls xyz" we intone a series of our own, "Fgs su," which in the vernacular of

MEC Favors Optional Unit System

State legislation to m ake the county unit system of road building and maintenance optional with counties will be supported by the Mississippi Economic Council in the future, Fred B. Smith of Ripley, president of the MEC, announces.

Mr. Smith said the Council previously was on record as making the county unit method mandatory for all counties, but that recent recommendations by two committees, plus a decision by the board of directors, resulted in a policy change to the optional method.

The Council has been on record as favoring the county unit system of road construction and maintenance since its study of county government over two years ago. The study pointed out that the county unit method is more economical and efficient than the "beat" system.

The switch to making the system optional with counties came after the MEC state legislative committee, headed by Orrin Swayze of Jackson, and the committee on public administration and taxation, headed by H. Vaughan Watkins, Jr., of Jackson, both recomended that it would be moore practical to establish the system on ai optional basis.

Legislation making the system optional would clearly spell out what is meant by the county unit system, Mr. Smith said. He said legislation to carry oot the intent o fthe new MEC policy has not yet been prepared.

During the coming months, a special educational campaign on the subject will be carried out under the direction of Owen Corporation at Yazoo City. The program will include publication and distribution of literature, and talks before civic groups on the subject.

British Exports

While British exports in May earned the record total of $794,640,000, this still was not enough to meet the import bill. The gap left exports and re-exports was $89,000,000 compared with an average for the previous four months of $143,000,000.

Saturday	Breakfast	4 chipped banana seeds

In The American Tradition —

And Now, A Word . . .

"Illinois casts a unanimous ballot for Stevenson. Next is Indiana, folks, but first, a message from one of our sponsors . .. " Well, maybe Hitchcock could do the suspense better, and we suggest the Democrats lose no time in signing him up. But this ought to give the convention managers at Chicago some idea, at least, of the enormous money-making potential of their quadrennial TV marathon which they have so far only begun to exploit in this year's plan for a big, brand-name sideshow in the Union Stockyards South Wing.

This is all right, as far as it goes. But after all, why shouldn't an attraction like the convention be wholly self-supporting? . . . With some clever management and only a little more of Paul M. Butler's unblushing salesmanship, the commercial possibilities of the convention might well finance the entire campaign. (Who said Hatch Act?)

Of course it could get out of hand. Even four years ago Betty Furness was a vice presidential dark horse. This time, a deadlock might well end in the nomination of Hoppity-Skippity, and we should not be surprised to find the platform interlaced with planks endorsing Lumpo Soap. What all this would do to the Democrats' Hooper rating we can only guess. But, would it buy a lot of TV time next fall! — (Washington Post and Times Herald.)

Elvis Pelvis Reconsidered —

Presley Perspective

We have a fair amount of sympathy for those parents who couldn't stand hours and hours of Elvis Presley, played on the phonograph by their 14-year-old daughter, and we think we can understand why the teen-ager ran away when she wasn't allowed to continue her rock-and-roll spree.

There's a fine old scholar who lives down the block from us, immersed in weighty tomes on the archaeology of Mesopotamia and similar intriguing subjects, who has the perfect answer to the Elvis Presleys of this world.

When he heard his granddaughters discussing the boy in the long sideburns, he took his pipe from his mouth, looked reminiscently at the ceiling and remarked "Presley, Presley . . . I don't seem to know that name. The last time I heard you talking it was about Rudy — let me see, was it Valley or Mountain? Something like that. Or perhaps it was your mother, or your grandmother . . . "

Then, he went back to the old stones in Mesopotamia. If you wait long enough things become permanent — or they go away.

"My Poppa Wuz A Railroad Man—"

The Railroader And Folklore

Forlklore seems to gravitate around some callings without benefit of press agent. Around those of the soldier and sailor, obviously, since the dawn of history. Around that of the railroader, too, not more than a century and a quarter old. Perhaps some day songs and legends will grow up around the airplane pilot and the cross-country truck driver. That's in the future. Just now the railroader is still going strong.

A couple of months ago the city of Jackson, Tennessee, opened the home of "Casey" Jones as a public museum. In exterior and furnishings it has been restored as nearly as possible to its appearance when the legendary but actual engineer occupied it with his wife and children up to fateful night in April, 1900, when he rode Engine 382 into the rear end of a freight while his fireman, on his orders, jumped in time.

A restored Engine 382 is there, too, along with railroad memorabilia of the age of steam, Mrs. Jones helped reopen her old home — 56 years later. And there, too, was Sim Webb, "Casey's" Negro fireman.

Making his last run upon retirement just a few weeks earlier and over the same right of way as "Casey" was another railroader destined, perhaps to become another legend. He is Engineer Albert T. McMillian, affectionately known as "Polecat." He had been seasoned by six years in the cab when "Casey" rode to fame. And he has been piloting crack trains ever since — a total of 57 years at the throttle.

No wonder railroading makes folklore.

ALONG THE R. F. D.

By Rose Budd Stevens

The trip Rose, Jr. and I planned to Jackson came about, but the overnight part was ruled out; after Dr. Blake advised us that an operation was necessary on her knee we decided to come home and begin to get things ready for the long week we are going to spend at the Baptist Hospital in Jackson.

As yeou are reading this Rose, Jr. will be in the operating rooom for the excision of the semi lunar cartilage of her left knee. She wants me to tell each one of you that visiting hours are 2-4 in the afternoon and 7-8 at night in the Pediatric section and she will be looking for you if you come to town for the day.

She has two new shortie gowns, lavish with lace, and a box of colors and a new coloring book, also a clip board to steady her things on. She looks forward to being in a room with three other little girls. I am the one who dreads the long hours of doing nothing when everything at home is a its peak with lush goodness, ready foor the freezer.

I too shall be looking for your visits to help me pass the time, and perhaps I shall come calling on the ones who invited us to drop by last Friday and we couldn't make it.

It is a fact that we get tired of the fruit pies once in a great while; however green apple pies made with apples from our own trees are a treat twice a day, when served with a slice of cheese, clotted cream, or ice cream, take your pick. When such pies begin to cloy I make a cheese pie, so rich and wonderful any persoon eating one piece will long for another even tho it puts pounds on the hips. I have several such recipes but the one below is jus a bit different, so try it won't you.

CHEESE PIE

1 cup sugar
4 level Tablespoons flour
4 tablespoons milk
nutmeg for the top
¼ cup butter
4 eggs
few grains salt

METHOD: Mix sugar and flour, sift twice. Cream with butter. Add egg yellows one at a time, beating well. Add milk and stir. Fold in well beaten egg whites, do this with a gentle hand. Bake in a raw crust that has been fluted prettily . . . I use a gglass baing pie plate that measures eight inches across the bottom and ten across the rim. This is filled nicely and when the pie bakes it rises and then gently sinks back making a rich crust. Just before you put this pie intoo a moderate oven 350 degrees, sprinkle top with nutmeg, with a generous hand if you lean nutmeg way, more sparsley if you can leave it alone. Bake until center barley shakes, remove at once and coool out of a draft, and not in the refigerator. This pie is one that is at its peak when served while faintly warm.

Remember when you were small and went to protracted meetings. The baskets were left in the buggies or cars and everything grew warm and the odors and often the flavors mingled. With my eyes shut I can recall the odor that came from my grandmother's basket. A tall and long affair of some sort of woven material . . . it had a lid that was fastened with a single catch, a little loop came down over another loop and a short piece of stick was stuck through.

I was entirely too short to see over into the baset and had to jump high as I could to even peek over and see the snowy cloth that covered the goodies therein. Always a big chicken pie tied up in a checkered table cloth sat cheek by jowl with the dinner basket . . . a pie so wonderful I srive to reach its perfection, but never once can I get just that right something . . . perhaps it is remembere childhood that I

KEEP THIS BRAND OFF THE GRASS

★ Ranking Member

And spokesman for the Deep South on the powerful Rules Committee, through which all major legislation funnels, Colmer gives Mississippi a potent voice in the councils of the American Congress.

★ Leader Of House Southern Group

Chosen first in 1948 by his Dixie colleagues as their leader, Colmer this year provided the drive and the generalship that stalled the mis-called civil rights bill to death. He co-sponsored the Southern Manifesto and originated the "Warning of Grave Danger" (Second Manifesto), refuting the propaganda of the NAACP that the Federal Government should force—with bayonets, if necessary—the South to do its will.

Take Time To Vote Tuesday, Aug. 28th

Let's take nothing for granted. Let's send Bill Colmer back to Congress with the kind of endorsement his effective, conscientious service for all the people deserves.

You Have An Investment In Colmer's Seniority. Protect It By Voting.

Counterfeit $20's

Merchants have been warned that somebody is taking one dollar bills and "lifting" them into twenties. The quality of the notes is so good the secret service men are giving the situation special attention. The main reason for the good quality of the counterfeit notes is that they are printed on bleached-out one dollar bills.

US farmers used 16 billion gallons of crude oil in 1955.

OFF THE GRASS

JUST THE FLICK OF A FINGER from a speeding automobile. A glowing cigarette lands in a clump of sun-dried grass. In minutes, the roaring blaze of another range fire races across the land.

Our open ranges are particularly susceptible to fire because of the quickness with which the flames spread. The term "go like wildfire" is handed down from the pioneers who knew only too well the dreaded speed and devastation of these holocausts.

Each year thousands of acres of valuable range lands are blackened in the U.S. Range fires burn grain, cattle and other livestock—destroy farms and ranches. The tragic part of all this is that range fires can be prevented! Because 9 out of 10 range fires are caused by carelessness—yours and your neighbor's.

Pledge yourself to be extra careful this year with matches, smokes, campfires, clearing fires—any fire. Make sure every spark is out—dead out!

Remember—
Only you can.

PREVENT RANGE FIRES!

In addition to providing dependable telephone service for approximately a third of a million homes and business houses in Mississippi, Southern Bell is contributing to the State's economy in other important ways.

There's the 16 million dollars in pay, for instance, which our 4600 Mississippi employees will receive this year, and spend or invest mostly where they live . . . and there are the large sums our company will spend in the State for materials and supplies . . . over $1,400,000 for poles and cross-arms alone this year.

The State's share of this tax money helps to ease each citizen's tax burden . . . and even more relief comes from the approximately 7 million tax dollars Southern Bell will pay into the state and county treasuries this year, helping to maintain Mississippi schools, government agencies, hospitals, and highways!

A PROFIT

Many alert businessmen increase their profit potential by using Bank Loans to make a saving. For example . . .

CASH DISCOUNTS on merchandise.
BUYING AHEAD in favorable markets.
REPAIRS that prevent depreciation.
IMPROVEMENTS on productive equipment.
The ADDITION of time-saving facilities.

Your own business might offer similar opportunities to "save by borrowing." If you think so, let's get together.

Home Agent's Notes

By Elsie H. Butler

Did you ever grow any fall Irish potatoes in your garden? They are on the list of fall vegetables for August planting, you know. Why don't you try some this year?

The seed potatoes should be sprouted the last half of July for August planting. The planting dates for our section of the state are August 15-25.

Take your seed potatoes out of storage two weeks before time to plant. Spread them over a floor or other shady place in a layer two to three inches deep and cover with moist sand, sawdust, mellow soil old sacks, straw or other material. Keep moist, but not wet, until sprouts are one-fourth to one-half inch long.

Lay off the rows late in the afternoon and drop the potatoes. Leave the pieces uncovered until early next morning and then cover them five to six inches deep. After planting compact the beds with a roller or some other implement.

Use the same amount of fertilizer as for spring potatoes, but mix it so the potatoes won't come in contact with it.

For more information on fall gardening, which begins this month, ask for a copy of the latest Garden, Fruit and Flower Guide, The Year Round Home Garden and Fall Gardening publications at your home or county agent's office.

Can I Refreeze Food?

For highest quality, the advice of foods specialists is to keep frozen foods frozen until you defrost them for use.

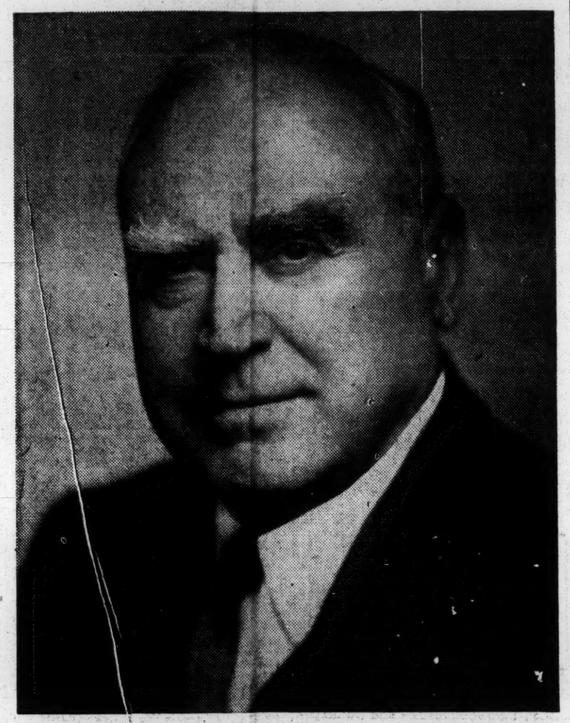
But, they add, if they do thaw before you need them, you may under certain conditions safely refreeze them.

The thawing and refreezing do not in themselves make fruits and vegetables unsafe. It's that thawed foods spoil more rapidly than fresh foods and may quickly become unsafe to eat if not refrigerated.

Foods are not likely to be safe for refreezing if they have reached temperatures of 45 degrees F. after having passed through the slow temperature changes that occur in a freezed when it stops operating.

Both fruits and vegetables may be frozen if they have not completely thawed or if they have

KOHLER TO ADDRESS MMA



Mr. HERBERT V. KOHLER, President of the Kohler Company, Kohler, Wisconsin, and the central figure in one of the most controversial management-labor disputes of modern times, will address the 5th Annual Convention and Free Enterprise Celebration of the Mississippi Manufacturers Association, October 19, at the Buena Vista Hotel in Biloxi, Mississippi. Because of his personal experiences as head of the firm which has been victimized by one of organized labor's most vicious assaults, Mr. Kohler is in great public demand for his powerful and inspirational message.

More than 500 Mississippi industrialists and businessmen will hear Mr. Kohler speak at the manufacturers group's annual meeting.

Heart Research Grants Awarded

Five heart research grants totaling $14,400 have been awarded physician-investigators at the University Medical Center in Jackson by the Mississippi Heart Association.

Announced this week by the MHA research and fellowship committee, the grants cover a one year period and are to be used for local research into various heart and blood diseases. The department of surgery at the Medical Center received $7700 in heart association research money. The cardiopulmonary laboratory of the department of medicine was awarded $4000 and $2700 went to the department of physiology and biophysics.

The Mississippi Heart Association research committee points out that nearly one-fourth of the total Mississippi Heart Fund contributed this year is being spent for research within the state. In addition. MHA earmarks a generous sum for American Heart Association research support, receiving back most of the monies contributed by way of national grant-in-aid to Mississippi researchers.

The $7700 allocated to the Medical Center Department of surgery will be used for three projects under three investigators. Experimental application of the bubble type pump oxygenator already under study in the Surgical Research laboratory for use in open heart surgery will be continued. Research will be begun into reliable, practical methods to prove or disprove the presence and location of major clots in blood vessels with an eye toward possible surgical removal of the offending embolus.

A third study will begin evaluating present methods in surgical management of coronary diseases, aiming toward improved methods of prevention and treatment of myocardial infarction, impaired circulation within the heart muscle.

Analysis of factors regulating cardiac output and body fluids, published in its recent Textbook of Medical Physiology, will be continued by the department of physiology and biophysics, using the state heart funds. Findings from the earlier study on the normal heart will be applied to investigation of cardiac output in the failing heart.

Paid political adv.

For highest quality, the advice of foods specialists is to keep frozen foods frozen until you defrost them for use.

But, they add, if they do thaw before you need them, you may under certain conditions safely refreeze them.

The thawing and refreezing do not in themselves make fruits and vegetables unsafe. It's that thawed foods spoil more rapidly than fresh foods and may quickly become unsafe to eat if not refrigerated.

Foods are not likely to be safe for refreezing if they have reached temperatures of 45 degrees F. after having passed through the slow temperature changes that occur in a freezed when it stops operating.

Both fruits and vegetables may be frozen if they have not completely thawed or if they have been thawed for a short time and have been held in your refrigerator. The thawing and refreezing will usually cause poorer quality and loss of flavor, however. Refrozen vegetables may toughen and refrozen fruits become soft and mushy.

Because low-acid foods, which include most vegetables, spoil rapidly after they are thawed and warmed up to temperatures above 45 degrees F., it's generally best not to refreeze. Acid foods, which include most fruits and fruit products, are likely to ferment after they have thawed and warmed up to temperatures above 45 degrees F.

Slight fermentation of acid foods may change or spoil flavor but does not make them unsafe to eat.

Fruit Plate Escorts

What's better on a hot day than a plate of cool, fresh fruit, many of which are in season now. To go along with them here are some ideas you may want to try.

Trim crusts from slices of bread and spread slices with your favorite cream cheese. Roll up and fasten with a toothpick. Brush the outside lightly with butter or margarine and toast under the broiler until golden brown. Tuck a wee sprig of parsley into one end just before serving.

Cut tiny squares of biscuit dough and coat them with cinnamon suger. Press a pecan half into the center of each just before baking. Serve piping hot.

In the first century, the Romans had vacation resorts in the Pyrenees.
